1 72 SMALLDIVE

Like many great labels, 72 Smalldive has a very international background. Started by Milan-based Singaporean strategy consultant Sze Tiong Soh and his designer friends in 2006, the indie label's bags, scarves and jewels are now sold in Europe and Singapore. Their latest Italian-crafted jewellery line, Jet Set Rock, combines sea-washed stones and 925 silver into understated, utterly unique pendants, bracelets and earrings.

Online at www.72smalldive.net or from The Blackmarket (19 Jalan Pisang, Singapore [along Victoria Street], tel +65 6296-8512)

2 GARDEN OF DESIRE

This charming jewellery boutique is one of the many stylish new stores opening up in Siem Reap. Cambodian Ly Pisith's creations can be found here; the designer's background in eyewear (for well-known French brands such as Alain Mikli and Philippe Starck) has been applied to this medium to wonderful effect.

Materials are sourced from across the world, but handcrafted and designed locally. Pisith's current collection includes this Fallen Leaves necklace (US$300).

3 MATINA AMANITA

Bangkok has no shortage of excellent design, and Matina Sukhahuta is just one of the city's exciting young minds. The third sibling of the team behind well-known Thai fashion label Sretsis ("sisters" spelt backwards), Matina's accessories line is now stocked in eight countries. Equally intrepid is the Globetrotters Collection, a range of ten rings inspired by the designer's travels – from New Delhi to Tokyo to her hometown of Bangkok (above).
